HOLYOKE - Holyoke Community College is offering two free programs for English language learners looking to begin careers in the culinary and hospitality field.

The courses, "Culinary Training for English Learners," both begin Tuesday, July 5, at the HCC MGM Culinary Arts Institute, 164 Race St. The daytime program runs Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. through August 31. The evening program runs Monday-Thursday, 4:30-8:30 p.m. through September 8.

The 180-hour training is designed for people learning English who are at an intermediate level; ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages) instruction is built into the curriculum. The programs are free thanks to a grant from the Adult & Community Learning Services division of the Massachusetts Dept. of Elementary & Secondary Education.

Students will gain skills in knife techniques, cooking methods, culinary math and measurements, workplace etiquette, resume building, and job searching, and earn certifications including ServSafe (for alcohol service), OSHA-10 (for workplace safety), and Guest Service Gold (for customer service excellence). The course incorporates 90 hours of English language learning and career preparation.

The programs are open to adult residents of Massachusetts who are learning English.

"We're looking for students who are ready to enter employment in culinary/hospitality at the conclusion of the program, and are ready to actively participate in an exciting, hands-on experience," said Emmanuel Reyes, academic and career adviser for HCC Adult Basic Education and Workforce Development. "We are currently working with over two dozen local employers eager to hire qualified graduates as food preparers, line cooks, servers, bartenders, hosts and hostesses, and hotel workers."
