Gateway to College

Holyoke Community College recently staged graduation ceremonies for its Gateway to College program. Gateway at HCC is part of a national network of programs that put struggling high-school students and dropouts into college classes, where they work toward their high-school diplomas and also collect transferable college credits. At top, Bianca Colflesh of Holyoke, one of the 15 graduates, celebrates with her family after the graduation ceremony. Below, Jeysha Vega Colon of Springfield celebrates with her family.
